

Eduard Vieta

Eduard Vieta is Professor of Psychiatry and the Director of the Bipolar Disorders Program of the Hospital Clinic at the University of Barcelona, in Barcelona, Spain. His research focuses on the neurobiology, epidemiology, and treatment of bipolar disorder. He is the current Director of the Bipolar Research Program at the Centro de Investigación en Red de Salud Mental (CIBERSAM), funded by the Spanish Ministry of Science and Innovation and one of the leaders of the European Network on Bipolar Expert Centers (ENBREC). He has also been nominated the official advisor on mood disorders research for the EU Presidency (Hungarian Government) and sits in the Executive Committee of the European College of Neuropsychopharmacology (ECNP). He has made significant contributions to many of the current bipolar disorder treatment guidelines, and with an H index of 46, has authored more than 400 original articles in peer-reviewed, top-ranking journals, 160 book chapters and 28 complete books. He is the most cited psychiatrist in Spain and sits on the editorial board of 18 international scientific journals and reviews articles for more than 30 others. He recently received the Aristotle Award and the Mogens Schou Award for excellence in bipolar disorder research.